I checked my correspondence with the CIG and Phil after the meeting. While I made an error in the first notice, I do believe there was enough other correspondence about his not being permitted on the plant site that he knew the meeting was there.

You may see his message and my response.

Sorry you did not realize plant tour meeting would be at plant. While the save the date memo referred to tour but lacked the updated location, I believed from your subsequent communications that you knew everything was at the plant. The June meeting will also be at the plant since it is a general plant tour. We return to the Haysville learning center in August for the annual corrective action report.

I emailed the meeting notes to you on March 10 and also mailed them by postal service. You contacted me on March 13 to say there were no meeting notes in my message. I sent them to you again by postal service. I will send them to you again when I return to my office. I did not send you the Rsvp reminders since I knew you could not attend.

The semiannual groundwater monitoring reports are still on the EPA website.

Good evening,

The CIG meetings are open to to public. What happened? I went by the learning center having not been notified of a change of venue and I was the only person there for the meeting. Granted it's not the only time I have been the only one not notified of an Oxy change.. I guess I will have to press KDHE, most unpleasant. I also did not receive the written version of the last meeting. The EPA seems to understand the dilemma and I wanted to have some input on the now required depository. If I am not only excluded from Oxy;'s property, but their bought and paid for CIG then it's a new game. How about it? .
